A FINE MINERAL EXHIBIT

The Showing to Be Made by South west Virginia-Some of the Exhibits That Have Already reached that point in carrying out the provisions of the bill passed last winter by which $50,00 was appropriated by the State for the purpose of exhibiting its material resources at the World's Fair, that a general view of what is being done will be of much interest.

Number 14. In the large warehouse on Governor Street, the headquaters of the commission, where Hon. G. E. Murrell, the superlatendent, has his office, has become an important business point in the city, and Mr. Murrell is a very busy man, enthusiastic in his undertakings and inspiring his assistants in the office and in the field with the same zeal and enthusiasm. Mr. Murrell took his first lessons in the exposition business some years ago, when he brought Bedford county to the State Fair here in Richmond, won his spurs and secured $700 in premiums for his good oid county.

Hon, W. W. Baker, of Chesterfield, was a strong competitor with the exhibits of his county, and took the prize the next year. They felt each other's steel in honorable rivalry. Hence they are working together now in common cause for Virginia as the assistant commissioners, and will be satisfied with nothing less than eminent success at the greatest of all expositions.

Minerals.

A good deal has been said about the unusual efforts that are being made by the wealthy operators in Southwest Virginia, mainly at their own expense, to have an exhibit of the minerals and timber of that section, which promises to compare favorably with that of any other State. But Mr. Murrell is not neglecting the minerals of other sections of the State. Through the efforts of an experienced quarryman, who is hard at work, a number of rough samples of building and other stones are coming in, which are being polished by workmen here in Richmond. Large samples of quartzite have been secured in slabs, and will be polished on one face. This is a stone similar to but superior to marble and other stones for soda fountain counters and other stones for soda fountain counters and other stones one face. It is proposed to make the mineral exhibit a permanent one for all future expositions.

A large and varied exhibit will be made, mainly along commercial lines. All the timbers of Virginia, which have marketable values, are being collected. Lumber companies chiefly in the Southwest, are offering very fine specimens, many of them in such magnificent proportions that the question of transportation must be considered. The smaller spec mens are gathered here, the larger ones will go direct to St. Louis. Nearly all who are appealed to respond heartily with their free contributions, delivered on trains, and all of the railroads have made a half rate for the transportation of such alf rate for the transportation of such Grain.

Grain.

Wheat, cats, rye, buckwheat and other grains in the straw have come to this collecting point in large quantities, and all are good; some of them very superior. A specimen of rye, sent by William Frank, of Timberville, Rockbridge county, has the unusual length of seven feet three inches.

Corn.

Virginia has a very superior crop of corn this year, while not ranking as high in production as some other States, it is highest in quality, Old Virginia meal is recognized the world over, as the best and the commission will make an unusual exhibit of this cereal. While the collectors will be along; to obtain proper samples, the superintendent will especially appreciate co-operation on the part of growers, and ask that they will ship by frieght, as much as a flower barrel full each of ears of the pick of the pile as to size, quality and wariety, and send to his address in Richmond. dress in Richmond

Virginia's staple nut, the peanut, will form a display such as has never been attempted before, which is stimulated by a growing foreign demand. This reature has recently been enlarged upon in The Times-Dispatch, and contemplates the crection of a handsome booth, constructed entirely of peanuts, within which will be shown the peanut in all its stages of growth, from start to finish, illustrated by striking photographs. Captain O. W. Stone, the observed collector, will also look after this existing timediately, among the growers and handlers of this toothsome nut in the peanut belt, while the superintendent is doing the apple in-

Fish, Oysters and Birds.

Fish, Oysters and Birds.

A fine and unusual collection of fish is being gathered together by the superintendent, who is assisted by Mr. J. Lyman Babcock a large trucker who resides on the coast in Princess Anne county near Cape Charles. He is an enthusiast on the subject of fish and dysters, being near by Lymnhaven Bay, Mr. Babcock keeps a close watch on the nets of the fishermen in that locality, and has already secured a great porpoise weighing 900 pounds; a sea monster, rarely seen, except in his acrobatic tumblings in the sea. He has also secured a Bonita fish of 165 pounds weight and some mackerel five feet long, and is on the lookout for a big shark and a sea turtle. Nothing less than an 800 to 1,000 ib. one will fill the bill. There will be samples also of every variety of pan and other rare fishes which abound in these waters.

There will be a full exhibit of these, to be the best yet seen. The supervisors of the fish and oyster countles will be asked to make appropriations to thoroughly equip this exhibit, as well as the birds of commercial value, such as wild geese and ducks, which frequent their shores. There will also be pairs of fine American eagles, as preys, to say nothing of pheasants, partridges, snipe, sera, etc., including the insectivorous and birds of plumage.

Too much cannot be said with regard to the enlarged photographs of growing wheat, rye, oats and other grain fields, as well as those of thickly standing shocks, apple orchards, heavily laden fruit trees, landscape views, tobacco fields, notable natural curiosities like the Natural Bridge and the natural railroad tunnel in Southwest Virginia, grander, if possible, than the Natural Bridge. A transparency of the latter, the best representation yet made, is to be seen in the office of President Stevens, of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, and is shown by him with much pride and pleasure, There will be about seventy of these beautiful transparencies and the display of these will be one of the most attractive features of Virginia's exhibit.

Fior. d ra's Luccessor,

John C. Fisher's latest musical production "The Silver Silper," which has enjoyed a successful run of six months at the Broadway Theatre, New York, will be the attraction at the Academy on Thursday, October 22d. "The Silver Silper" is to a certain extent a girl and music show, but unlike the majority of mus'cal plays, it does not depend entirely upon the young women who comprise the company, or on the tuneful music of Lesile Silvart. The book of the play is by Owen Hall. His story is decidedly original and blocks of original American wit and humor have been infused into the dialogue by Clay M. Greene, who re-arranged it for the American stage. The lyrics are by W. H. Risque, The entire production, with magnificent scenery and expensive costumes, will be seen with the or ginal company, headed by Sam Collins, Gertrude Millington, Fred Runnels, Harry H. Eurcher, Virginia Palmer, Nannette Thulon, Lora Lieb.
